David,

I'd suggest a call to discuss with Donna, Richard and the two of us to define our strategy on this.

October 6 is the first day that suits our lot...

I'd want to pin down the excretion issue before presenting. The ADME has always been the weak link in our argument and the Spanish response highlights that we have not got rid of the problem. So one question is, why does Syngenta not have a problem (and similarly how do all the other glyphosates remain on the market in Spain).

Therefore I also agree with christophe's concern on PI.

Needs further technical and strategic discussion, please

Regards
Richard

David,

It's definitely worth exploring although we need to be careful not giving away our proprietary formulation data (protected) and our competitive advantage.

Let's discuss!

Regards,

Christophe

Christophe,

The 2010 EUROTOX annual meeting is in Barcelona, July 19-23.

Do you think I should submit an abstract on the dermal absorption of glyphosate? This could also provide further opportunity for dialogue and interaction with the Spanish Authorities.

Cheers,

David
